Education on Your Doorstep

Local Government Teachers College, Akola, is currently conducting online teaching (virtual class) for trainees of b.ed second year session three on the background of covid-19. An important demonstration in this course for the trainees this year is to complete the service period. Due to the current situation, schools are closed and online teaching is being started everywhere. Since the school is closed under normal circumstances, online teaching has started everywhere. However, realizing that the girls of class VIII and IX living in Gayatri Balikashram are deprived of education, the principal in charge of the college, Dr. Vasudha Dev and Chatrasevakala coordinator Dr. Asha Dharaskar as well as all the faculty decided to provide online teaching services for the girls in the girls' home through the B.Ed trainees of their college. In this regard, after discussing with the director of Gayatri Balikashrama, permission was obtained from Ritsar. From December 14, B.Ed trainees started teaching these girls online. Every day from 3.00 pm to 5.00 pm, the girls in the girls' home started taking online lessons through Google Meet. Not only this, in view of the overall personality of the girls, various cultural and literary activities were also organized and planned. The taught part was evaluated by factor test to see if the girls understood. What is special is that the little girls enthusiastically participated in the learning process through Google Meet on their laptops.

Mr. Dadasaheb Pant, Director of Gayatri Balikashram and Mrs. Joshi, Supervisor provided laptops and assisted in the 'Education on Your Door Step' initiative being implemented by the college for the online education of these girls. The student undertaking coordinator Dr. If Asha Dharaskar happens, under the guidance of and the principal of the college Dr. Vasudha Vs. It was inspired by God. A total of 11 trainees taught language, social sciences, science and mathematics for the girls in the girls' ashram and also planned various school and co-school activities under this initiative. B.ed trainees Shrikrishna Gopnarayan and Ragini Anasune acted as group leaders under this initiative.
